

AZED No. 2,771 Plain

DINGLE-DANGLE

1 T. Anderson: Potting whiz won snooker frame, going like the clappers (Ding led angle; ref. Ding Junhui, bell clapper).

2 D. F. Manley: Hollow Donald's leader with viewpoint oscillating (dingle D angle; ref. D. Trump).

3 Mrs A. M. Walden: England batted with delight, all except the last pair swinging freely (anag. less ht).

VHC

D. K. Arnott: Reform glad Nigel and Nadine denied in a twinkling swinging both ways (anag. less anag.; ref. Nigel Farage, Nadine Dorries).

K. Brough: Almost dark? Not very – Lendl gave up swinging (ding(y) + anag. less v).

W. Drever: Did England largely get beaten by leg spinning with movement in both directions? (anag. less d + anag.).

Dr I. S. Fletcher: Reform lead in England with Government for one vacillating so (anag. with G for an).

R. Gilbert: Learned engineer tended towards a point of view, but irresolutely (DIng led angle).

S. D. Griew: Wild lady regularly discarded negligé to entertain desperate guy like a swinger point (Dan in anag. incl. l(a)d(y)).

J. Grimes: Lord! Old friend Azed's latest inclination is to go back and forth (Dingle² d angle; ref. recent repetition of past competition words).

P. F. Henderson: Row over local kite line waving around (din gled angle).

A. Mango: Swinging process gladdening the French (anag. + le).

P. W. Marlow: Swinging ball undid batting side ultimately with England bowling to seal international (I in anag. incl. last letters).

A. Mason: Pendular bulb in bunch, left in the course of feast (LED in gang l in dine).

P. McKenna: Sweeping from side to side finally cleaned fireplace – dashed French article (dingle dang² le).

J. Price: Swinging both ways, Di hooks up with grotesque Glen and giddy Glenda (Di + anag. + anag.).

D. Price Jones: Gladden Nigel's Reform? Swingometer's right, left, right ... movement might achieve that reproduction (anag.).

W. Ransome: Golfer's regularly seen with wood, and vigorously swinging back and forth? (dingle + anag. + g(o)l(f)e(r)).

N. G. Shippobotham: Alternatively, leg and leg in bottom of pond? (anag. incl. d, & lit.).

J. Smailes: Most of aid lost to corrupt double-dealing in swinging state? (anag. of dealing x2, less ai(d)).

P. A. Stephenson: Gelded nag, nil cobblers swinging to and fro (anag.).

M. Tattersall: Corrupt LLD engaged in swinging (anag.).

K. & J. Wolff: Dried gutted fish nailed by fireplace might be hanging thus (ingle in d(rie)d angle)

R. Zara: England glide erratically, moving back and forth (anag.).

HC

K. Bray, T. Clement, M. Coates, J. Curtis, E. Dawid, C. M. Edmunds, J. Fairclough, O. Grant, G. Johnstone, J. R. C. Michie, C. Ogilvie, A. J. Shields, P. Trumper.

Comments

Normal service has now, I hope, been restored with this slip after August's disorder. I'm not quite sure what happened though nothing, I think, went awry. I should add that my son Ned has recently joined the team as voluntary and very welcome assistant, adding his input to John Grimshaw's long-standing (and very welcome) contribution as my regular checker. As time passes, I am increasingly prone to occasional lapsus calami.