There are eight clashes in the grid, one being larger than the others. Each must be replaced by an appropriate symbol in submissions. Numbers in brackets denote the length of answers.

Twenty-three clues have a misprint in the definition. Correct letters in clue order spell the title of a work having something in common with the solution.

The last letters of four of the clues whose corrected misprints give the first letter of the words in the title of the work can be re-arranged to spell what the grid represents.

Punctuation may mislead. Chambers is recommended
